I need to work with a binary number. I tried writing: `const x = 00010000;` But it didn't work. I know that I can use a hexadecimal number that has the same value as 00010000, but I want to know if there is a type in C++ for binary numbers and if there isn't, is there another solution for my problem?

The travelling salesman problem (TSP) asks the following question: "Given a list of cities and the distances between each pair of cities, what is the shortest possible route that visits each city and returns to the origin city?" It is an NP-hard problem in combinatorial optimization, important in operations research and theoretical computer science. ...

Information is any entity or form that provides the answer to a question of some kind or resolves uncertainty. It is thus related to data and knowledge, as data represents values attributed to parameters, and knowledge signifies understanding of real things or abstract concepts. As it regards data, the information's existence is not necessarily coupled to an observer (it exists beyond an event ...

Context matters. The layman can't evaluate projections of temperatures for the year 2100. They can evaluate projections such as "snow is a thing of the past" and use of hurricanes and polar bears as symbols, both of which failed to do what was requested of them by the projections.

Electrode reaction rates and most double layer parameters are extensive quantities and have to be referred to the unit area of the interface. Knowledge of the real surface area of electrodes is therefore needed. Comparison of experimental data with theories or of experimental results for different materials and/or from different laboratories to each other is physically groundless without ...

Al Gore has provided a target-rich environment of deceptions in his new movie. After viewing Gore’s most recent movie, An Inconvenient Sequel: Truth to Power, and after reading the book version of the movie, I was more than a little astounded. The new movie and book are chock-full of bad science, bad policy, and factual errors.
